*Commanding 36th Sikhs.*FORT LOCKHART;
*The 20th September 1897.*A. G. YEATMAN-BIGGS, Major-General, Commanding Kohat Field Force.

From Major-General A. G. YEATMAN-BIGGS, C.B., Commanding the Kurram-Kohat Force, to the Deputy-Adjutant General, Punjab Command—(dated Fort Lockhart, the 30th September 1897).

I have the honour to report, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India, that the camp at Sadda was attacked on the night of the 16th and 17th September.

Colonel G. L. R. Richardson, C.I.E., commanding the Flying Column, had established himself in a well intrenched camp and high ground overlooking Sadda. About 10-30 P.M. on the 16th a lashkar, consisting of Massuzais and Chamkannis, numbering about 2,000, collected in the Khurmanadarra and attacked a picquet of the 5th Punjab Infantry about a hundred yards outside the south-east corner of the camp. The picquet had to abandon their sangar and retire into camp, losing the havildar in so doing. The moon was obscured by passing clouds, and the noise of the water rushing in the nullah prevented the patrols of the 5th Punjab Infantry and 1-5th Gurkhas hearing or seeing the approaching enemy.

The enemy's attack was pushed to within twenty or thirty yards of the stone wall with which the camp was surrounded with a certain amount of resolution up to midnight, after which it slackened off considerably. In no case did the enemy come to close quarters, though two standards were brought up to within fifty yards of the camp. They seemed to have lost heart at the last moment in the face of the steady fire which was brought to bear on them.

The expenditure of ammunition was as follows:—

	Rifles.	Rounds.
15th Sikhs	• • • • •	• 525
5th Punjab Infantry	• • • • •	• 1,200
1-5th Gurkhas	• • • • •	• 373
	TOTAL	2,098

The usual casualty returns have been already forwarded.

From Major-General A. G. YEATMAN-BIGGS, C.B., Commanding the Kurram-Kohat Force, to the Adjutant-General in India—(dated Fort Lockhart, the 30th September 1897).

I have the honour to report that on the 27th August last a large gathering of Orakzais appeared on the Samana Suk, and heavy firing was heard in the direction of Shinawari, which was held by the Border Police. This was reported to me at Kohat.

Reconnaissances were made from Gulistan towards the Samana Suk, and from Hangu to Shinawari.

The enemy was found to be about 4,000 in number, strongly posted on the Samana Suk. In this reconnaissance, I regret to say, Lieutenant A. K. Blair, 36th Sikhs, was wounded in the chest. Reinforcements were sent from Fort Lockhart, but soon after their arrival at Gulistan information was received that the enemy's lashkar was assembling to the east of Fort Lockhart, so Lieutenant-Colonel Haughton, 36th Sikhs, commanding on the Samana, decided to return to Fort Lockhart.

The officer commanding the reconnaissance made by a squadron of the 18th Bengal Lancers to Shinawari returned the same day to Hangu, and reported all well. This was the second reconnaissance made from Hangu to Shinawari (a distance of over twenty miles) within the last few days.

The following day the enemy were discovered to be holding the Chagru Kotal as well as the Samana Suk on the west of the Samana Range, and the Sarmela spur on the east end of the range, and during the day they burnt the posts of Gogra and Tsalai, which had been evacuated by the Border Police.

In order to anticipate the enemy, should a second attack be made on Shinawari, I ordered two companies of Gurkhas to march to reinforce the garrison there. One squadron of cavalry accompanied them, with orders to return to Hangu as soon as the Gurkhas had reached the post. Reliable reports were received on the morning of the 29th August that Shinawari had been evacuated by the Border Police, and the post burnt by the tribesmen the previous evening, so the troops en route to reinforce the garrison were recalled.

The Orakzais held a jirga this day, and decided that the Alikhel, Mamuzai, Alisherzai and Akhel should attack Gulistan on Friday, September 3rd, whilst the Mishti, Sheikhan, Mallakhel and Rabiakhel attacked Hangu.

During the night of the 29th the post of Sangar was fired into, and a sepoy of the Border Police deserted from the adjacent post of Dhar with his rifle and ammunition. This post was therefore reinforced by one Native officer and 37 sepoys of the 36th Sikhs, so that all posts on the Samana should be held by Sikhs.

The three following days the enemy remained on the east and west ends of the Samana, but made no further move.

On the 3rd September a bhisti from Dhar was murdered by the enemy, and his three mules stolen. Mr. D. Donald, Commandant of the Border Police, proceeded to Dhar to make inquiries into the circumstances, and he and his escort were fired on.

As the tribesmen were reported to be advancing on Gulistan and Saragarhi in force, these posts were reinforced from Fort Lockhart. Towards evening the enemy, in considerable force, established himself in and about Picquet Hill, 400 yards west of Gulistan, and set fire to the thorn hedge which had been placed as an obstacle a few yards outside the horn-work of the place. The fire was extinguished by volunteers, whose names have been brought to notice by me in a separate letter. At 8 P. M. the bonfire, which had been previously prepared between the horn-work and Picquet Hill was lit by volunteers, whose names have also been mentioned in the marginally-noted despatch.

The enemy kept up a hot fire until midnight, when they finally retired.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. Haughton and Lieutenant and Adjutant R. G. Munn, of the 36th Sikhs, strove hard, with their little handful of men from Fort Lockhart, to succour the many small posts scattered over the Samana Range that were beset on all sides by overwhelming numbers of the enemy.

I attach the usual casualty return on Army Form B-103. The expenditure of ammunition between the 27th August and the 3rd September on the Samana was—

Rifles.

Rounds expended
3,649

I have not considered it necessary to attach any sketch, as the whole ground is so well known, and has already been mapped by the Survey Department.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT—GENERAL.

Calcutta, the 23rd December 1897.

Reorganization of the Public Works Department Secretariat of the Government of India.

Read—

Public Works Department Resolution No. 204 R. E., dated the 23rd March 1888.
Despatch to Secretary of State, No. 219 Financial, dated the 11th August 1897.
Despatch from Secretary of State, No. 29 P. W., dated the 14th October 1897.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of India have had under consideration the question of change of organisation in their Public Works Department Secretariat necessary to meet the development of the Indian railway system and the increased work in the Railway Branch. They therefore placed before Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India certain proposals having for their object a saving of labour and economy of power in the despatch of business. These proposals have now received His Lordship's sanction.

2. Hitherto the business of the Department has been distributed as follows:—

- (1) The Railway Branch.
- (2) The Civil Works Branch, including Irrigation, Collieries, and the Telegraph Department.
- (3) The General Branch, which deals with all Establishment questions affecting Civil Works, and State and Companies' Railways.
- (4) The Accounts Branch which deals with all Account matters affecting the Railways, Civil Works of all kinds, and the Telegraph Department.

3. The staff of the Secretariat for the disposal of the above business has consisted of the following officers:—

- A Secretary in charge of the whole Department;
- An Inspector General of Irrigation who was also Deputy Secretary, with an Under Secretary; in charge, under the Secretary, of all Civil Works other than Railways, and the Telegraph Department;
- The Director General of Railways, who was also a Deputy Secretary, with an Under Secretary and three Assistant Secretaries; in charge, under the Secretary, of all Railway business;
- An Under Secretary; in charge, under the Secretary, of all Establishment questions connected with both Civil Works and Railways;
- An Accountant General, who is also Deputy Secretary, with a Deputy Accountant General, who is also Under Secretary, and other graded officers of the Superior Accounts Establishment.

In addition to the above there have been three sanctioned posts for Railway Officers outside the Secretariat; namely,—

- The Consulting Engineer for State Railways (in abeyance since August 1896).
- a Deputy Consulting Engineer, and
- an Assistant Engineer, assisting the latter in Technical questions.

4. In future the Department will be organised as follows:—

The Railway Branch will be completely separated from the Civil Works Branch, which will conduct all business other than that connected with Railways; except as regards certain general questions of Account and Establishment organisation, and some others, in which both Branches are concerned.

5. The Railway work will be placed under the Secretary, under whom will be two Directors, one for Construction and the other for Traffic. The former will also be ex-officio Director of Stores, and the latter of Railway Statistics; these officers will also be Deputy Secretaries, Railway Branch. Under each Deputy Secretary there will be an Under Secretary; and there will be two Railway Assistant Secretaries.

6. The General or Civil Works business will be under a Joint Secretary to Government, who will also be Inspector General of Irrigation. He will deal finally as a Secretary with all Works, Accounts, and Establishment cases, with which the Railway Branch is not concerned.

7. Cases in which both Branches are concerned will be dealt with by the Railway Secretary and the Joint Secretary in consultation.

8. The appointment of Director General of Railways will be now merged in that of the Secretary who will be the chief adviser of the Government in Railway matters. The functions and responsibilities at present attaching to the Director General of Railways, in his position as administrative head of the State Railways, will, to a greater extent than hitherto, devolve upon the Managers and Engineers-in-Chief of the several lines. This devolution will, however, be a gradual process; and for the present the duties that have been hitherto performed and the powers that have been exercised by the Director General of Railways, as an administrative head, will be carried on and exercised by the Director of Construction and the Director of Traffic, each in his own branch of business. Any subsidiary instructions in regard to the delegation of increased powers to Managers and Engineers-in-Chief, as well as the respective functions of the Directors of Construction and Traffic that further experience may show to be required will be issued hereafter as occasion may arise.

9. The duties hitherto discharged by the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for State Railways will be combined with those of the Director of Construction and Deputy Secretary, Railways, whose appointment is referred to in paragraph 5.

10. The Deputy Consulting Engineer, whose post has hitherto been outside the Secretariat, will now become the Under Secretary for Construction in the new post, also referred to in paragraph 5.

11. Of the three Railway Assistant Secretaries, who have also been hitherto Assistants to the Director General of Railways, one will be now employed solely on Establishment work, being attached for that purpose to the General (Establishment) Branch under the officer who has hitherto been in sole charge of that Branch as Under Secretary. The remaining two will continue in the Railway Branch.

12. The post of Assistant Engineer under the Consulting Engineer for State Railways is abolished.

13. The posts of Deputy and Under Secretaries, Accounts Branch, and Under Secretaries, General (Establishment) and Works Branches, will continue as hitherto. The officers of the Accounts and General (Establishment) Branches will continue to carry on the business in respect of their own Branch of duties for both Railway and Civil Works Branches, under the orders of the Railway Secretary and the Joint Secretary, respectively. The Under Secretary, Civil Works Branch, including the Telegraph Department, will continue to carry on the work of that Branch directly under the Joint Secretary and Inspector General of Irrigation.

14. The appointment of Director General of Railways having merged in that of the Secretary, the Governor General in Council directs that all correspondence hitherto addressed to that officer in connection with State or Companies' lines shall be addressed to the Directors of Construction and Traffic, respectively, each in his own branch.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

By DR. Gao. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III, & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L; and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI), but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Measures proposed for checking venereal disease among the British troops in India.

No. 73 of 1897.

Military Department

To

THE RIGHT HON'BLE LORD GEORGE FRANCIS HAMILTON,
HER MAJESTY'S SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

Simla, the 18th May 1897.

MY LORD,

We have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of Your Lordship's Military Despatch No. 25, dated 26th March 1897, on the subject of the prevalence and increase of venereal disease among the British troops in India, and measures to be taken to check it.

2. With the despatch is forwarded a report by a Departmental Committee, of which the Earl of Onslow was Chairman, appointed to examine the official returns of venereal disease among the British troops stationed in India, and to report what changes, if any, had taken place during recent years in the prevalence of such disease, and its character and intensity; also with regard to the prevalence, character and intensity, of venereal disease in foreign armies. A memorandum by the Army Sanitary Commission, also enclosed in the despatch, deals generally with the measures by which it is considered possible to restrict the spread of venereal disease among soldiers in India.

Her Majesty's Government consider that, subject to the restrictions contained in paragraph 11 of the despatch, rules 5, 6 and 7 of the Cantonment Rules made in 1895, under sections 26 and 27 of the Cantonments Act of 1889, should be made applicable, not merely to cholera, small-pox, diphtheria, or typhoid fever, but to all infectious and contagious diseases, including venereal disease, and consider it imperatively necessary that this disease should not be exempted from the measures adopted to prevent the spread of other contagious diseases.

3. We have considered the observations made by Your Lordship in the despatch, and the suggestions contained in the memorandum by the Army Sanitary Commissioner forwarded therewith; also the representations made by the Royal College of Surgeons of England, and the Royal College of Physicians, on the same subject. In compliance with the instruction contained in paragraph 12 of the despatch, we enclose, for Your Lordship's consideration and approval, a copy of the draft rules we propose to issue under the Cantonments Act of 1889, in order to give effect to the decision of Her Majesty's Government.

4. With reference to the registration referred to in paragraph 11 of the despatch, we would observe that registers of all the inhabitants of bazars in cantonments are already maintained under paragraph 2053, Army Regulations, India, Volume II, and these are sufficient for all practical purposes, so far as mere registration is concerned. The real difficulty lies not so much in discovering who are professional prostitutes as in ascertaining who are diseased and securing their medical treatment.

5. As to the question whether legislation is necessary, we have, after very careful consideration, come to the conclusion that the repeal of Act V of 1895 cannot be avoided. It appears to us that the rules, although drafted with the least degree of stringency necessary to enable cantonment authorities to deal with the evils against which they have to contend, may nevertheless be held in a court of law to contravene the Act. So long as this Act remains on the statute book, the officers who have to carry out the provisions of the rules would, in our opinion, be exposed to an unfair risk, and we could not expect them to do their duty effectively while the law is, at least, ambiguous. We further consider that section 31 of the Cantonments Act should be amended so as to protect medical and other officers in the performance of duties which the rules impose upon them. We therefore forward for Your Lordship's approval a draft of a Bill which we propose to introduce, repealing Act V of 1895, and amending section 31, Act XIII of 1889, so as to afford the protection which we consider necessary.

We propose to consider, in consultation with Local Governments, whether the area for the operation of the rules, or any of them, should, under section 28 (b) of Act XIII of 1889, be extended beyond the actual limits of cantonments.

6. With respect to the suggestion of the Army Sanitary Commission regarding the employment of female hospital assistants, without questioning its propriety in certain circumstances, we feel bound to record our opinion that for the class of common prostitute in India, with which we have mainly to do, it is an entirely unnecessary, and in many respects unsuitable, provision. If we were re-introducing a system of compulsory examination there might perhaps be a plausible case, but under our proposed rules compulsion will be strictly excluded. We must also point out that there are practical difficulties in the way of obtaining such female assistants. It is doubtful whether women possessing the necessary medical qualifications, and of a status sufficiently good to preclude the possibility of their receiving bribes from the women they would have to examine, would be willing to undertake the work. In any case, very few would be forthcoming at once; the great majority would have to be specially trained, and this will take time, and involve considerable expense. It is impossible, therefore, to put these rules in force, if the condition is insisted upon as a necessary preliminary, but if Your Lordship so desires, we shall endeavour to procure female assistants where their services will be most useful, and take steps for the gradual extension of the system.

7. With reference to paragraph 12 of the despatch, the necessity for the prevention of the practices of loitering and importuning by women of a low class has for some time been impressed on us, and we had framed rules which were embodied in the draft Cantonment Code. They have now been incorporated in the draft rules herewith submitted for approval. We are aware of the mischief wrought by coolie, and other women whose occupations bring them into the vicinity of barracks; efforts have been made to diminish their number, and more stringent orders will now be issued.

8. We fully acknowledge the desirability of raising the moral and physical condition of the army in the directions indicated, and of warning young soldiers on their arrival in India of the dangers to which they are exposed, and of the terrible consequences attending the contraction of venereal disease in a tropical climate. These matters have already received our attention and that of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief. Such further measures as are practicable will be taken. We are also taking steps to institute the inquiry suggested in paragraph 16 of Your Lordship's despatch. We shall address Your Lordship on this subject hereafter.

9. With regard to paragraph 15 of the despatch, we forward a letter from the Adjutant-General in India embodying the views of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief with which we entirely agree, on the subject of inspection of soldiers, penal stoppages for admission to hospital, and the punishment of soldiers concealing venereal disease. His Excellency recommends that the suggestions of the Army Sanitary Commission regarding the medical inspection of soldiers for the detection of venereal disease should be adopted; except that married men, soldiers who have never been admitted to hospital for this cause, and those who have not required medical treatment for venereal disease for two years, should be exempted. As to punishment for concealment of disease, section 11 of the Army Act furnishes sufficient powers, and it is only necessary to insist on their being put into force.

Penal stoppages are, however, on a different footing, and Sir George White advises the amendment of the Army Act so as to include, among the authorised deductions, the stoppage of a soldier's pay for the number of days he may be detained in hospital for venereal disease. We trust Your Lordship will strongly urge on the War Office the advisability of co-operation in this matter, with a view to the amendment of the Act, and in order that the change in the Regulations may be made applicable to the British Army wherever stationed.

10. We recommend these measures as the most effectual that can be devised under existing restrictions. If they do not suffice, it will be necessary, in order to cope effectively with venereal disease, to adopt a much more comprehensive measure. In view of the importance of giving effect to our proposals, if approved, as early as possible, we should be glad to receive a reply from Your Lordship by telegram.

We have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servants,

(Signed) ELGIN.

I have the honour, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the consideration of the Government of India, His Excellency's views in respect to the suggestions of the Army Sanitary Commission for the suppression of venereal disease in the army.

2. The Commander-in-Chief supports, generally, the proposal that British soldiers be inspected in view to the detection of venereal disease, but would exclude from such inspection married men, soldiers who have never been admitted to hospital for this disease, and those who have been two years clear of treatment for it. His Excellency would, however, modify these exceptions in cases where there were reasonable grounds for believing that men were suffering from the disease.

3. Such a discrimination in the application of the system of inspection seems to His Excellency very desirable, as it would protect men who are conscious of moral rectitude from a parade which must be specially painful to their self-respect. It is true that recruits would thus in many instances be exempted from examination, but it appears fair to exempt men until they have shown themselves fitting subjects for examination, and in order to minimise any evil results to these young soldiers from concealment of disease, non-commissioned officers should be encouraged and held responsible for sending to hospital all men known to be infected. There is a natural feeling against men who treat themselves in the barrack room and who use the common washing utensils, etc., and non-commissioned officers will have less hesitation in reporting recruits than their older comrades.

4. As regards penal stoppages, Sir George White considers that the Army Act should be amended so as to include, amongst authorised deductions, the ordinary pay of a soldier for every day on which he is in hospital on account of venereal disease unless he can prove that the disease was contracted under circumstances not the result of his own immorality.

It may perhaps be argued that the power specially conferred upon the Government of India by section 136, Army Act, gives sufficient authority for the imposition of stoppages of pay such as those advocated above; but His Excellency thinks the powers delegated under this head to the Government of India were meant to provide for cases more or less special to India, and that it would not be expedient to use those powers to override a privilege of exemption from deduction of pay while in hospital which is secured to the British soldier everywhere under section 138 (2), Army Act. It is also manifestly desirable that uniformity of procedure with regard to examination and penal stoppages should obtain throughout the British Army wherever stationed.

5. The Commander-in-Chief therefore strongly urges that the co-operation of the War Office be invited with a view to the necessary orders being issued from Army Head-Quarters in England, and also that the change in the Army Act and regulations may be made universally applicable to the British Army.

6. With regard to punishment for concealment of venereal disease, sufficient powers already exist under section 11, Army Act, and His Excellency thinks it will only be necessary to issue executive instructions for their rigid exercise.

MILITARY,

No. 50.

INDIA OFFICE,

London, 8th July 1897.

To His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,

I have considered in Council Your Excellency's Military Despatch No. 73 of the 18th May 1897, with which you forward, for my consideration and approval, a copy of the draft Rules which you propose to issue under the Cantonments Act of 1889, in order to give effect to the decision of Her Majesty's Government as to the measures to be taken to check the spread of venereal disease among the British troops in India.

Measures proposed for checking venereal disease among the British Troops in India.

M. 5532.

Her Majesty's Government as to the measures to be taken to check the spread of venereal disease among the British troops in India.

2. The Rules are in accordance with the instructions laid down in paragraph 11 of my Despatch No. 25 of 1897, and appear to be well calculated to effect the desired object. Very much will depend on their being worked with zeal and intelligence, and great care will also be necessary to ensure that the action of the Military authorities is kept strictly within the limits of the Rules.

3. Your Government are of opinion that these Rules, although drafted with the least degree of stringency necessary to enable cantonment authorities to deal with the evils against which they have to contend, may nevertheless be held in a Court of Law to contravene Act 5 of 1895, and you propose therefore to repeal that Act. I sanction accordingly the introduction of the Bill for this purpose, the draft of which is forwarded with your Despatch. A telegram conveying my approval to the Bill and to the draft Rules was sent to Your Excellency on the 6th instant.

4. With reference to the suggestion of the Army Sanitary Commission that female hospital assistants should be employed under the direction of medical officers in the examination and treatment of women, I do not concur in the opinion of your Government that it is an unnecessary and in many respects unsuitable provision. There may possibly be difficulties in carrying it out at present on an extensive scale, but I shall be glad if your Government will give it a trial wherever practicable.

5. I request that you will furnish me with copies of any warning which His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief may issue for the benefit of young soldiers on their arrival in India, with regard to the dangers to which they are exposed, and the terrible consequences attending the contraction of venereal disease in a tropical climate. Copies should, I think, be furnished to all troops on embarkation for India.

6. I am in communication with the Secretary of State for War and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief regarding the proposals made in paragraph 9 of Your Lordship's Despatch for the medical inspection of soldiers, penal stoppages for admission to hospital on account of venereal disease, and the punishment of men concealing the existence of this disease.

I have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servant,

(Signed) GEORGE HAMILTON.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

By Dr. Gao. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8 Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L; and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI), but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.
